California parks, still facing development under the $12,000,000 matched state bond plan, are growing in popularity every day. Director of Natural Resources Fred G. Stevenson reports. Revealing a count of visitors visiting some of the chief natural beauty spots, Stevenson said that California Redwood Park in Santa Cruz led all others for popularity, and now is attracting an average of 1182 visitors daily. Its nearest competitor is Bidwell Park Chico, where fifty-four tourists come daily during summer months.

The lease for the hotel has already been let, according to Hart, to a concern that agrees to equip the hotel with $85,000 worth of fixtures.

Plans to construct the first feeder line to the proposed Great Northern-Western Pacific link in California were revealed in an application to the Interstate Commerce Commission, jointly filed by the two railroads. Authority is asked to build a railroad thirty-six miles long, through timber country in Modoc and Siskiyou counties. The feeder line would start from a point near Lookout, on the proposed Great Northern extension into this state, and would extend to Hambone on the McCloud River Railroad.

Despite the fact that there were more fires, losses in the Livermore district have been lower than at this time last season, according to Fire Warden John McGlinchey. Lowering of losses is ascribed by McGlinchey to increased vigilance and efficiency on the part of patrolmen. Guards have been stationed at important points where unusual hazards exist, and all deer hunters entering these districts are questioned by guards to ascertain whether they have written permission from owners to enter the property.

The Merced Merchants' Association endorsed plans for a two-day roundup and rodeo in the Bear Creek park at Merced, September 14 and 15.

The property was purchased recently by the Legion post, and a clubhouse is soon to be erected on it. Other East Bay posts may be invited to participate in the project McCormack said.

General Petroleum, which sought to test out a vast acreage near Delano for oil reserves, has temporarily left the potential field because land owners have looked with disapproval on the plan of testing for hidden antileaks by blasting. Under the new Kern county ordinance, permission of land owners must be secured for a given radius, and this not being forthcoming, the company has deemed it wise at this time to drill for oil without the blast experiments.

Lefty Grove Refuses to Let Up

EVERY time Lefty Grove throws one of his fast balls at a batter he should toss along an antidote for dizziness. He shoots his rocket ball past batters with such terrific speed that some of them stagger around in the batter's box like a punch drunk boxer.

And conditions are getting worse for the opposition, for Lefty is pennant bound, and his speed and hooks seem to be just a little more effective.

They just can't stop Lefty this year. The tall southpaw from the hills of Maryland has hurled skillfully and furiously. He probably won't calm down until the A's have clinched the pennant. If Grove had been himself against the Yankees last year the Mackmen might have won the flag. That's why he is so determined this year.

Showing speed to rival a Vance and throwing curves like a Pennock in his prime, Grove won 17 of his first 19 games and fanned close to 120 men. That puts him well on the road to a new high season's total of victories and a new league record for strikeouts.

Lefty, who, at twenty-nine, is serving his fifth season in the majors, has a reputation as a strikeout king to defend. He seldom fell below 200 when he was with Baltimore in the International and one season fanned 330. Up to this year Grove had whiffed 906 men, or an average of 166 for his four year hitch with the A's.

Lefty won 24 games last year. Six of the eight he lost were caused by the Yankees. He should be good for 23 victories this season.

Lefty Grove.

Advice Means Nothing to Baseball's Star Hitter

Floyd Herman of the Brooklyn Robins, one of baseball's naturals, is around the top of the hitters. In a recent game he drove a homer on a line over the left field fence.

"Heard word," said Herman, gaily, as he romped around the plate. "You know, Max Carey told me the short right field fence was made for me, and he showed me how to step back to hit to right. So up came the pitch, and I unwound myself, and took my step and wove, away she went over into the street outside left field."

"Do your own hitting after this," said Carey. "You're the kind of a hitter that aims for the fence in right field and hits it over the left field wall. But when you took your step back I grabbed the water bucket for fear you'd fall into it."

WORLD SERIES RIVALS COMPARED ON POINTS

Team Play Essential in Short Series This Fall.

(By E. ALLEN LUTZ.)

Another season is fast drawing to a close with two teams leading their respective rivals in the same league with comparative leads that seems more than likely to carry them safely to the end as winners.

Assuming that the two present leaders will finish at the top a comparison of their strengths, man for man, team for team and manager against manager follows:

In the catching department the Athletics have a big advantage with Cochrane doing the bulk of the catching and Perkins, a veteran of many years, helping out. Either catcher overshadows any the Cubs may use, unless Hartnett gets back in the game and he will not be up to his standard with a full season layoff. Gonzales is the Cubs' hope, with Taylor, late of the Boston Braves, a good substitute.

At first base Grimm is a better fielder than Foxx, but not the hitter. Foxx is "coming," while Grimm is "going back," which gives the Athletics a big edge at first base.

At second base the Cubs have the edge in Hornsby. While Bishop is a better fielder and the best lead-off man in the American league, he is not the hitter that Hornsby is and in a short series Hornsby is at his best.

Third base belongs to the Athletics. Dykes or Hale are better than Beck or McMillan, both in fielding and hitting. McMillan is inclined to get nervous in a tight place, while Beck is woefully weak at the bat.

English at short will outplay and outthrust Boley, while Boley has a weak arm which slows up a double play combination.

Simmons in left field has the edge on Stephenson only in hitting in the pinch. Both are good fielders and sure "catchers."

Center field is about a stand-off with Wilson given the shade for his long distance hitting. Both are fast and sure flycatchers, and are .300 hitters.

In right field the comparison is rather difficult. Both fielders are the most accurate throwers in their league, hard hitters, with Cuyler the speediest of the two. In a short series the Cubs have the edge.

In the pitching department Grove and Walberg are in a class by themselves. No Cub pitcher can compare with either, both being southpaws.

Bush, Root, Malone and Blake are as good as Rommel, Earnshaw, Ehmeke and Quinn. Quinn may be the big surprise of the Athletics as may Bush of the Cubs. With two star southpaws the Athletics have an advantage.

In reserve strength the teams average equal. The Cubs have good material for outfield duty, while the Athletics are better fortified on the infield.

The Cubs have a faster infield than the Athletics, as good a fielding outfield, team hitting about equal, with the Athletics superior in the catching and pitching department. The Athletics should win four and lose two mainly through superior pitching and catching. Both teams should finish with a comfortable lead which will give them plenty of time to tune up for the world series to follow. In this respect the pitchers will have plenty of rest.

In the "skull" department the Athletics have the edge with Connie Mack a veteran of many battles and Eddie Collins, his chief lieutenant, a hard man to beat in intelligence. The Cubs have McCarthy who has done noble work with his team during this year, but has never before had a pennant winner or a world series to "fight."

Rookie Is Slugger

Baseball's latest sensation—Dale Alexander, formerly with Toronto in the International league, now in his first season as a big leaguer with the Detroit Americans. He's playing first base and is a real slugger.

Grimes Loses Chance

After winning ten straight games for the Pirates, Burleigh Grimes was butted out of the box the other day by the Giants. It is his ambition to better or equal one of two records.

In 1912 Joe Wood, of the Boston Red Sox, and Walter Johnson, of the Senators, each hung up 16 straight victories. The world record, 19 in a row, was established by Tim Lincecum, of the ball manager. This is his twenty-ninth season as pilot of the Athletics.

POULTRY FACTS

LAYING HOUSES IN NEED OF CLEANING

Scrape and Scrub Various Utensils Made Use Of.

Information to poultrymen concerning fall cleaning of poultry houses is given in a statement just issued by Hoyt M. Wells, poultryman for the Colorado Agricultural college.

"The laying house for the pullets should be given a thorough cleaning," says Wells. "All dropping boards, roosts, nesting boxes, feeders and drinking containers ought to be scraped and scrubbed with a good disinfectant. Roosts may be painted with a carbolineum product to control red mites. Old litter should be removed from the floor, and if the floor is wooden or concrete, it should be scraped and sprayed with a good disinfectant.

"White-washing walls and ceiling will give greater sanitation and provide more light in the house in winter. White-wash may be applied best with a force spray pump."

This mixture gives good results: Slack lime with water to the consistency of cream. Take five quarts of this, add one pint of good coal tar disinfectant and one quart of kerosene, stir thoroughly, and add an equal amount of water. Strain the whitewash through a fine screen or a piece of burlap before using it in the sprayer.

"Window lights should be cleaned and broken ones replaced. Sweep down all muslin curtains, and replace with new muslin, those that are too dirty or torn.

"This is the best time of the year to repair the roof, or put on a new one. Check over all seams on patent roofing for leaks.

"A good deep litter should be put in the laying house next, and new nesting material in the nest boxes. Remove old litter and replace with bright, clean straw every four weeks or oftener, if necessary."

Scratching Found Not

Essential to Fowls

Three flocks of Rhode Island Reds and three White Leghorns at the University of Illinois indicated that hens do as well when fed grain in boxes as when they are obliged to scratch for it in deep litter. This method has the advantage of being much cleaner and more sanitary.

One lot of each breed was fed dry mash in hoppers and scratch grain morning and night in straw litter. A second lot received dry mash in hoppers, but the grain was fed twice daily in shallow troughs. For the third lot the scratch grain was ground and mixed with the mash and the whole ration self-fed in hoppers.

No high records were made, but the egg yields were not affected materially by the methods of feeding. The test ran for 41 weeks.

The grain mixture was shelled corn, 70 pounds and oats, 30 pounds. The mash was made up of 17 pounds each of ground corn, ground oats, wheat bran and flour middlings, 25 pounds of dried buttermilk, 5 pounds of bone-meal and 2 pounds of salt.

Poultry Facts

Shut up the broody hens each night.

Infertile eggs do not spoil as readily as fertile eggs do.

Eggs are a food which is quickly and easily digested.

Cleanliness is next to Godliness. In the chicken business it spells success or failure.

A little extra feeding now may give you more late summer and fall eggs. Hens won't eat much in the real hot weather, and a bit of extra weight put on them now will help them to lay later on.

Don't forget the water pans. Eggs are not produced without a constant supply.

For the gosling a mixture of corn meal, bran and ground oats mixed with the table scraps and moistened with milk or water to a crumbly consistency is satisfactory.

Records kept by poultry flock owners showing that culling of flocks and marketing of unprofitable layers and surplus broilers are highly profitable practices.

Eggs from hens have a higher rate of hatchability than those from pullets, and produce larger and more vigorous chicks.

Charcoal is good for turkey poulters—sweetens up their digestion. It's a good idea to keep a pan of it where the poulters can help themselves.

If there are mites in the poultry house keep the chicks outside. The mites can live for six months to a year without the chicks, but the chicks can't live six days with the mites.

Hawks and crows are often blamed for chick losses that trace to stray cats. These thieves can be caught in box traps, set near the poultry runs, and baited with a dead chicken.

Clean management is important in growing healthy chicks. Take precautions to prevent carrying disease from mature stock to the chicks on the clothes and shoes of the persons caring for the poultry. Disease may be spread also on poultry equipment and by allowing old and young stock to run together.

THRIFTY people are HAPPY and PROSPEROUS people. A THRIFTY COMMUNITY is a HAPPY and PROSPEROUS COMMUNITY. It should, therefore, be our aim as a community to cultivate the habit of THRIFT and SAVING.

Thrifty persons are those who know HOW TO SPEND as well as ACCUMULATE. Spending wisely is really saving. The real keynote of thrift is EMPLOYING EFFICIENTLY THE MONEY YOU SPEND; and knowing what you don't want. One of life's hardest tasks is to spend money judiciously after having earned it. Thrifty people apply sane economies to their daily expenditure.

There is the economy of cleanliness, by using the facilities of the local laundry, or equipping the home with modern devices. Economy in fuel by providing for Winter needs at Summer prices. There is economy in food, by purchasing in quantities from your local dealers and by providing proper refrigeration to insure the safe keeping of perishable foods. All of these are thrifty practices. The possibilities of ECONOMIES which are EFFICIENCIES are almost endless.

Practical economy results in the saving of money. And saving money is one of the fundamental needs for a well rounded life. Save a little, no matter HOW little; begin as young as possible and stick to it.

Guard your savings, invest them only where they will be safe and secure. Make no investment until you have consulted your banker. He will gladly help you and give you advice. Remember the PROPER INVESTMENT OF MONEY is fully as important as economy.

Save for eventual financial independence, PLAN your savings and then work your PLAN. The first step toward financial independence is a Savings Account. The Savings Bank was instituted for the small saver. It has stood the test of time; it is safe and it is convenient.

The investment next in line to savings should be a life insurance policy. For life insurance provides both investment and protection. Among the advantages of life insurance are these: It eliminates worry and increases initiative; it is absolutely safe; it encourages saving; it is a great assistance in business, investment and home buying.

There are many other forms of investment such as real estate, bonds, stocks, mortgages, etc. Before making such an investment, consult your banker. Your bank has facilities to assist and aid you toward financial independence.

Bear in mind that every time you deposit a dollar in the bank or invest it in some LEGITIMATE and USEFUL ENTERPRISE, you assist some one to GET and KEEP a USEFUL JOB. EVERY DOLLAR YOU BANK OR INVEST PROVIDES WORK FOR SOMEBODY.

Four Stages of Financial Accomplishment

1. All success begins with Savings. A growing savings account is essential to each succeeding step.
2. Investment—the ability to capitalize upon thrift that has gone before.
3. The establishment of a Home and a Business through the fruits of Savings and Investments.
4. Finally providing for Heirs through Bank or Trust Company to insure their profiting by the co-ordinated endeavor of a life time.

Plan for Prosperity

1. Have Thrift Ideals.
2. Aim to retire with an income at 60 or 65.
3. Aim to Own your Own Home.
4. Aim to Give your Children an Education.
5. Aim to Create an Estate.

Industrial Subservience

THE law occasionally takes queer quirks, and if certain under-privileged classes occasionally gain the idea that all law is made for the other fellow, it is, perhaps, as much the fault of those who have the administration of the law as it is a misunderstanding upon the part of those who resent their mandates.

One of the most glaring instances of a decision which is bound to increase class friction, is that rendered this week by Judge W. H. Kirkpatrick of the Federal Court of Philadelphia and directed against the textile strikers of that city. In his decision the judge granted an injunction against the workers in this he forbids any activity of the union looking to the breaking of contracts which many of the workers during the last ten days have been compelled to sign to remain in the employ of these manufacturers. This contract is one of those known as "yellow dog contracts."

The worker must not only agree not to join the Amalgamated, but he must also agree in case he does join the union to at once leave the employ of the manufacturer and pledge himself for 30 days after he leaves it not to make any efforts to induce any employees of the manufacturer to join the union.

Commenting editorially upon this injunction the San Francisco News says:

"An unusually obnoxious anti-labor injunction application has been made to a federal judge in Philadelphia. Manufacturers demand that the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America be restrained from unionizing the shops of that city."

"The application, according to news dispatches, seeks to use the Sherman anti-trust law as a club against labor, on the ground that the union's strike is interfering with interstate commerce. That is nonsense. But it is particularly dangerous nonsense. For it is an attempt to pervert the Sherman act."

"It so happens that the union which would be victimized by such an injunction is one of the strongest and best in the country—best from the point of view of both labor and capital. It has more than 100,000 members. Its record in establishing order and prosperity in the men's clothing industry in other cities, and in co-operating with leading companies to improve labor conditions and production, is a brilliant example of the new unionism.

"Indeed the Philadelphia manufacturers charge in their injunction application that agreement with the union are 'co-conspirators.'"

"The notorious 'yellow dog contract,' now illegal in many states, enters the injunction case. The union is charged with persuading workers to break contracts in which they had been forced to sign away their right to join the union."

gressional remedy for the injunction evil, a reform already too long delayed."

Why Discuss Prisoners Of War?

GENEVA committees have recently been kept busy discussing the status and proper treatment of prisoners of war. The Kellogg pact and the Brian proposal for the realization of Victor Hugo's plan for the United States of Europe led one to suppose that the hideous anachronism of war was definitely outlawed by all civilized peoples.

An American President had previously publicly declared "it is for the generation that saw and survived the world war to devise measures of prevention. If we fail in this we shall deserve all the disaster which will surely be visited on us because of our failure." A British leader had also assured us that "wars are precipitated by motives which the statesmen responsible for them dare not openly avow. A public discussion would drag those motives in their nudity into the open, where they would die of exposure to the withering contempt of humanity."

More powerful and convincing than the words of either is the advent of the air plane, laden with tons of more and more powerful explosives, and more and more deadly poison gases, such as diphenyl chloroarsine and others, against which no masks efficiently protect.

Recent records tell of a made speed of 340 miles per hour by a British plane.

No very vivid imagination is needed to convince any Senator, Congressman or M. P. that, with whole cities wiped out and countries desolated, there will be little need to discuss prisoners of war.

There will not be any such animals! Had not we all better stand by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald in their efforts to make Peace prospects by real progressive disarmament, and SO SAVE CIVILIZATION.

George K. Rice Finds Wreck Of Airliner

The Transcontinental Air Transport plane, San Francisco, which was wrecked in New Mexico last week, and for the finding of which a reward of $10,000 was offered, was discovered by a Redwood City flyer. The discovery of the wreckage of the machine on a New Mexico mountain was made by George Kenneth Rice, son of County Recorder and Mrs. T. C. Rice of this city.

Rice is a pilot in the employ of Western Air Express, now flying between Los Angeles and Albuquerque, New Mexico. He was for some time engaged in flying between Los Angeles and the Oakland airport.

C. of C. Plan Of License Tax Given Hearing

The schedule of license fees proposed by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce and submitted to the city council for consideration Tuesday evening after a lengthy consideration was referred to City Attorney Albert Mansfield and City Manager Rollison, who will confer with the chamber officials in connection with certain parts of the ordinance as proposed.

It was felt by the council that some fees set in the proposed schedule were too low, and that others would work a hardship on some of the merchants of the city. Other points were considered by City Attorney Mansfield to be impossible of application.

The proposed ordinance was prepared for the chamber of commerce by a committee consisting of P. E. Brand, David Cosgrave, Julius Smith, Carl Muller, P. E. Long, B. E. Myers and Carl Wagner, president of the chamber of commerce.

COLMA GIRL RECOVERING FROM KNIFE ATTACK

Miss Geraldine Silicani, Colma girl, who was stabbed seven times by an unknown assailant as she was returning to her home from a street car on the night of August 15, is reported to be recovering from the injuries received at that time. This week she underwent an operation for the removal of an abscess resulting from one of the wounds. At first little hope was held for the girl's recovery due to loss of blood.

THE CHALLENGER

for reliability

The Grand Prize for reliability in the 15-day running of the famous "Tour de France" was awarded to Essex the Challenger. The two Essex entries finished the race without a single penalty—the only cars with perfect scores—winning by a great margin over the strong field of high-priced American and European cars. . . . Not only the Grand Prize, but the Ansaldo Cup, for quick getaway; the Lyonnais Cup, the Pyrenees Cup, the Atlantic Cup, the Cup of Brittany, the Cup of Normandy and the Cup of the North were also taken by Essex the Challenger.

Performs Like a Costly Car
Because Built Like a Costly Car

Essex the Challenger looks and acts like a costly car because it is built like a costly car. Its enormous success has inspired others to claim qualities "like Essex". Yet everything about it—appearance, performance, comfort and luxurious smoothness—mark it apart, and altogether different.

To be like Essex without building like Essex is a goal no car has found possible. More than 200,000 owners know the outright facts. You can know them too in 30 minutes behind the wheel.

ESTATE ACTS

Not Property, of Property in An- Transfer of Made Easy S-Sys Authority.

Panorama of the World's Legal Systems." Dr. Wignore spent ten years on this work, the first of its kind to be attempted.

The longest real estate deed in the world, recently discovered, is written in Arabic and dates from the 1500's, says Dr. Wignore in his chapters on the Islamic or Mohammedan Legal System. This deed, which established a trust in favor of the grantor's heirs and freedmen, is in the Khedivial (Royal) Library at Cairo.

"Conveyancing of property in the Islamic system reached a development well comparable with that of the modern Anglican system, not only in the standard forms but also in the technical concepts," says Dr. Wignore. "The wakuf or trust . . . exhibits the remarkable juristic instinct of the Arab thinkers. In the 'wakuf' they invented a legal concept which equals, if not excels, in originality and practical utility, the Anglican trust, it combines the ideas of trust, family entail, and charitable foundation. The grantor transfers the bare legal title to God, and appoints an administrator to manage the property for the beneficiary; thus there are four parties to the transaction. This expedient has proved so flexible and so popular that in the Ottoman Empire three-fourths of the city lands were held by this tenure."

The Koran On Dedication
The Koran, the great bible of the Arabs, the "Word of God," written by Mohammed in the sixth century is the source of the Islamic law that still governs two hundred and fifty million people.

At present in this country, land never be used for any other purpose. Over a thousand years ago, the Prophet Mohammed wrote: "In Omar relates that Omar, in the life time of the messenger of God, made alms of one of his properties called Tsamgh, which consisted of a palm-grove. Omar said: 'O messenger of God, I possess a property which is precious to me and I would make alms with it.' The Prophet replied: 'Give it in alms but provide that it shall never be sold nor given away nor divided among heirs, but the fruits of it shall be used.' So Omar made alms with the property, dedicating it to the use of the holy war, the ransom of slaves, and the support of the poor, of guests, of travelers and of kindred."

On the distribution of an estate the Koran, Sect. IV, Verse 12, says: "God bids that, in distributing an estate, a son receive as much as two daughters, if only daughters remain, and more than two, they receive two-thirds of the estate if only one, the half. Father and mother shall have each one-sixth, if there is a child; if none and parents take, the mother has one-third; if brothers survive, the mother takes one-sixth; provided that legacies and debts be first paid."

Monks Owned Half Europe

In the eighth century the use of written deeds had spread northwards from Italy; but the deeds were in Latin and were prepared by a scribe, and usually neither the grantor nor the grantee could read the document. The clergy and the monks were the only educated people at that time. As late as the 1200's, few of the nobles and large land-owners could write more than their names; much less could they write Latin. In a deed of A. D. 757, one of the oldest extant deeds north of Italy, the grantor does not even sign his name; the earliest signatures by grantors do not appear until the 1300's.

The conveyancing was chiefly in the hands of the monks. They had come to own possibly one-half of all the lands in Christian Europe, through numerous pious bequests, and they were naturally expert conveyancers. A deed dated A. D. 757, bequeaths three large estates to the Monastery of St. Gall in Switzerland, "for the remission of my sins."

Fling Deeds in A. D. 748

The oldest private instruments in Europe, north of Italy are at the monastery St. Gall. These deeds date no further back than the 700's, so a deed executed in Japan in August A. D. 748 is considered quite antique. It gives the area of a piece of land sold by one Uji-no-sukune Okuni to the family of the lady Minami Fujiwara. The deed states that this is residential property and has on it two houses; it gives the exact location of the property and further states that the papers have been filed in the office of record—a procedure necessary in this country today in the transfer of real estate.

A record of a mortgage loan also from Japan, made out in the year A. D. 773, states that "a shingle-roof house on one lot of residential land" will be repaid with interest "on receipt of my wages."

In China during the Ming dynasty about A. D. 1400 the minister Yung Lo framed a new general code and on this code was founded that of the next Manchu dynasty, the Tsing, some two centuries later. This Ta Tsing Lu Li or Code Tsing became law about A. D. 1650, and endured until the revolution of A. D. 1912. The following are the passages from the Law of Mortgages from the Lu which shows how the statutes operated to protect the property owner 270 years ago.

"Whoever takes lands or tenements by way of mortgage, without entering into a regular contract, duly authenticated and assessed with the legal duty of the proper magistrate, shall receive 50 blows, and forfeit to government half the consideration money of the mortgage."

"If, after the period specified in the deed, by which any land or tenements are professed to be mortgaged or pledged by the proprietor, is expired, the said proprietor offers to redeem his property by the payment back of the original consideration upon which he had parted with it, it shall not be allowed the mortgagee to refuse to comply; and, in instance of such refusal shall subject him to the punishment of 40 blows and to the forfeiture of all the produce of the land, which he may have reaped after the expiration of such period."

Torrens System in China

The Torrens method of registering title to land (instead of merely recording deeds) though new in this country, has been in force in China for at least 150 years. Every Chinese land owner has his official certificate of title which is indisputable.

The oldest Greek statute now extant comes from the island of Crete. This is the law of the city of Gortyna, dating from perhaps B. C. 400. This inscription, the largest existing fragment of any Greek law, came to light less than fifty years ago; for the stones on which it was chiseled had been buried for two thousand years or more and its discovery made a sensation in the learned world. It was about thirty feet long in its original form; the broken pieces are now scattered in several museums. The first paragraphs of this law deal with personal freedom and slavery; the later paragraphs deal chiefly with the inheritance of property.

These laws show that more than two thousand years ago, women in this Cretean city could own property. Moreover, the law provided that a husband could not sell or mortgage his wife's property, nor could a son dispose of his mother's property. If a mother dies, says this ancient statute on property, and leaves children, the father has power over her property but he cannot sell it or mortgage it, unless the children consent when they come of age. Moreover, if the father marries another woman after the first wife's death, the children of the first wife shall have power over their mother's property. Penalties are provided for the violation of any of these provisions.

Ancient rulers in all countries of the world respected property rights for their people. They may have tortured their subjects and murdered them they may have given them no voice in the making of the laws. But they made it possible for them to own property and to transfer it; and the favorable laws on real estate that exist today found their beginnings in these ancient times.

Sequoia Wins

Sequoia opened its football season by defeating St. Ignatius 12 to 0 Admission Day. From the showing the Cherokee made it appears that they have a strong team. The game was evenly matched throughout.

There were few fumbles, but St. Ignatius owes its defeat to fumbles at crucial moments. Twice the Ignatians were within the ten yard line; twice they fumbled and Sequoia recovered the ball both times.

Gordon Partee, Cherokee captain, kicked off. It was a long low punt which was only returned a few yards. Throughout the game Partee shined. He scored Sequoia's second touchdown but failed to convert either time.

"Joe" Britschgi, right halfback, played a fine game. He received a punt from the Ignatians in the second quarter and zig-zagged down the field 37 yards for a touchdown.

There was no individual starring by the Ignatians as they were on the defensive three-fourths of the game. Another thing which handicapped the Ignatians was that their captain was unable to play due to injuries received during practice.

Both teams show promise of being at the head of their respective leagues by the end of the regular season.

During the second half "Red" Lintner was hurt, and Al Cleland replaced him. He finished the game up in great shape.

Where Manchurian War Clouds Are Heavy

View of the city of Foganichyana, Manchuria, on the Chinese Eastern railway, a central spot in the troubles that have been threatening to bring war between China and Russia.

Swedes Return to Homeland From Russia

What is believed to be the largest wholesale return of "prodigal sons" ever recorded took place recently in Europe. About two hundred years ago a group of dissatisfied Swedes left their homeland and trekked to South Russia to make their future homes. Here the colony thrived and flourished to more than a thousand. However, since Russia turned Red the colonists, who had kept their identity without mixing a drop of Russian blood in their veins, began to get disgusted with the way things were going in their adopted land, so recently they decided to return to the land of their fathers and they went back in one huge train, whose arrival in Sweden is here shown with Red Cross nurses meeting it.

BESS, THE DRESSY TYPIST

(By D. J. Walsh)

FOUR-THIRTY o'clock on a smothering summer afternoon in a downtown office five floors up, so darkened by the tall building across the narrow alley that electric lights must burn all day long. Most office working girls know that dead alive feeling when they are tired out and it seems too late to begin some new task, yet there is a whole half hour before release.

But fifteen minutes later—how different! A sudden wake-up, closing of desks, busy mirrors and powder puffs and squirming about to look for new runs in their chiffon stockings. (Cheerful exchanges of "What you goin' to do tonight?"

Voices in the adjoining room and the pleasant fragrance of a cigar proclaimed the return of Mr. Fred Argyle, the debonair son of the wholesale jeweler at the head of this firm. Bess, the dressy typist, hummed the latest dance hit as she quickly sorted and clipped together her many papers. The clerk, Lillian, eyed her critically from the top of the sleek brown bob to the shapely pumps, then announced, "I see Bess has another heavy date with our Freddy tonight. All doled up. You're a fast worker, Kid." With sly undertones.

"Guess again," tossed Bess, slipping the cover over her typewriter which, each evening, she removed to a small desk by the window, leaving her table clear for other work next morning. Now she lifted the heavy machine and, with a deft swinging motion, made the exchange.

"Look here, my young lady!" Fred Argyle had stepped in and his tones were cross. "Some fine day that thing will slip from your fingers and go right out that open window. Kindly practice your juggler's art somewhere else!" "How should I know it's a window? It lets in neither air nor light!" Bess knew the other girls were snickering into their discreet "vanities," but she soon hid them good night as though nothing had occurred. She walked the two miles home to avoid the jammed cars and to enjoy any possible breeze on the way through the park. But the more she recalled that episode the hotter she grew. "Juggler's art!" And she had handled the typewriter; anyway that came most easily. She had observed that Fred had never yet offered to lift it for her. He was too lazy to even reach across his own desk for the extension phone—some one must always run and shove it over to him! At his present rate, by the time he reached thirty his physical profile would resemble that of a sunfish she had seen at Field museum.

A week and more passed with no further mention of the matter. She felt that Lillian was trying to hide a little triumph—or trying to display it. Young Argyle was off on one of his frequent trips for the company. Bess refused to acknowledge to herself that she had developed a slight uneasiness and so handled the machine with more care—strictly on the sly and taking great pains that no one should notice it.

Then on Saturday, near quitting time, the stenographer stepped in from the outer office with a letter she intended to type herself, but, instead of her usual last-minute haste she deliberately placed her ear against the edge of the closed door and raised a hand for silence.

Wondering, the other girls watched until she listened to them, whispering, "Fred is back, but something's wrong; they're searching frantically through the safe." Then she stole back to hear more. Lillian followed. Bess made a move to join them—heard, steps—and hastily picked up her already covered typewriter instead.

Fred opened the door so suddenly he nearly upset the two girls there, but he seemed too agitated to observe them. "Did any of you see—" he began. A scream from Bess, a grating sound, her body perilously out the window—Fred there, his arm clutching her back. Then his angry "Didn't I warn you that would happen!"

Well, it had. The culprit crumpled down on a chair, too dazed to utter a word, unconscious of the chattering all about her, of the girls' earnest efforts to excuse and comfort her. Then vaguely aware of a short, testy argument between Argyle senior and junior about police efficiency. Next Fred at the telephone with orders to have something radio broadcast immediately—great stress on the big cash reward offered to aid in the return of something. Rising from the phone, "You'll find, dad, that cash offer will bring quicker results than any police detectives could."

What did all that matter to her? But the typewriter, a new one they had bought recently at her own request; they had permitted her to choose it; its price would come out of her salary, of course, even if they did not fire her. But remorse and chagrin cut her far worse than did that prospect.

Meanwhile Lillian, at the window, had reported that no one was hurt. "Gee, but the crowd! Blocks the alley at both ends! There's a rusty little Ford, though, that sure got its nose broken—typewriter landed square on its engine. People trying to pick up the scattered keys. A cop's having a hot spiel with the man in the alley." Then presently, "For the love o' crying out loud! What's that cop arresting the man for? Ain't he had trouble enough with his car all busted!" And Lillian jammed on her hat and ran out to get particulars at closer range.

Slowly Bess roused herself to go also. She had to wait for the elevator and when it came up out stepped an officer leading a defiantly cursing young man whom he ushered directly into the jewelry office, closing the door in Bess' face as she would have followed him.

Instinctively she remained there and, amid a buzz of voices, presently heard the officer saying, "Yes, I had heard your broadcast not two minutes before. Now, this bird didn't seem near as mad about the accident as he was anxious to get away—that made me suspicious. So I searched him and—here're your gems."

Not wanting them to find her hanging around, Bess hurried off. Her head was aching now and she longed to get away, anywhere; so, on an extravagant impulse, she hailed a taxi. "Where to, miss?" "Oh, Greenview cemetery. Peaceful there and no crowds." After dismissing the cab Bess strolled a long time amid the quiet beauty, where both her parents lay. Gradually it dawned on her that her careless accident had been the direct cause of the recovery of the firm's stolen jewelry, and she even began to see the ridiculous angle of the affair.

Bess really dreaded to give up her position there, so prudence and pride seasawed a long time before she decided what course to pursue. Then she hurried back to town and to the savings bank, where her very modest account reposed, and withdrew an amount covering the cost of the typewriter. This she inclosed with an extremely dignified letter stating her regret and her resignation; registered it and went home, knowing it would reach Mr. Argyle early Monday morning. Pride had conquered.

Already, the late afternoon papers were featuring the "Amazing Jewelry Theft and Recovery!" Beside the portrait of the thief was her own, smiling at her mockingly. Bess went home in a sort of miserable trance and took her headache early to bed.

She moped down to breakfast Sunday morning, not feeling much better. Then by her plate was an exquisite bouquet of roses—also a special delivery letter. With her expectant family watching, she eagerly tore this open, disclosing the firm's check for the sum they had offered in their broadcast. Also a happy-looking scrawl: "Dear Bess, you've got to forgive my ugly grudge. We always knew you could handle a typewriter! Please do stay in tonight. I want to tell you so. FRED."

Landslide on a Town

Any one who has ever visited Quebec cannot help recalling that a cliff separates the upper and lower towns. Houses of the lower town extend up to the cliff base, while on the cliff crest rest the fortifications. In 1800 a mass of rock slipped from the cliff face beneath the citadel and crashed over the houses beneath it. The result was very disastrous, for at that time the greater and most important part of the town was situated under the frowning cliff. Many persons were killed.

Started Baldheaded

A customer in the barber chair thought to nip in the bud any sales talk on dandruff cure, new hair tonic or shampoo when the barber started in with the remark:

"Your hair is getting thin, isn't it?" "No; the fact is, I've more hair now than I had twenty-five years ago." "Why you don't look to be a day over twenty-five now," was the reply. "Well, the truth is, I was twenty-five years old last week."

Great Elizabethan Comedy

The vivacious comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor," was written by Shakespeare in 1599. Tradition has it that the play was composed by command of Queen Elizabeth, who wished to see her favorite character, Falstaff, in the situation of a lover. It has been one of the most popular of the Shakespearean comedies from the days of Elizabeth to the present time.

"Jute" Paper

The bureau of standards says that there is no definite percentage of jute fiber required in paper classified as jute paper. Any strong wrapping paper made of old rope, burlap or jute waste may be classified as a jute paper. Such papers are used for heavy wrapping and for lime and cement bags.

Treasure Island Ever Real to Youthful Mind

Two rough men they were, and as the boy looked upon them one of them appeared to be an old chap with a peg leg and a patch over one eye and a wicked gleam in the other. They came up from the lake shore to the vacant house where the boy was at work tending the lawn, and when he ran from them they gave chase until he hid in a patch of vines. Afterward when he had told his story, policemen and grownups came to search the nearby territory and to question the wide-eyed lad, until some scouter suggested that possibly he had seen Long John Silver, whereat they laughed and went their way.

He spoke more truthfully than he knew, did the one who asked about Long John, for certain it is that the boy had seen the wily old pirate himself. Another might only have observed a couple of ordinary individuals bent on ordinary business, but not this young watcher. The lawn where he stood was Treasure Island and the house behind him was the blockhouse. The brush about him was peopled with rascals who carried long cutlasses and flintlock pistols, and as sure as you're born it was Old John himself who came tapping up the gravel way from the shore.

For Treasure Island is not an uncharted patch of green on some ocean, as kindly R. L. S. would be the first to say were he here. It is a quite real spot in the heart of youth, which is the abiding place of strong deeds and stronger men, put there by one who carried some of boyhood's fancies over the borderline of manhood. So a common patch may be a Montana trail with Sitting Bull skulking behind an elm tree.

The searchers will not find Long John. Not unless the boy lends them his eyes, and that he cannot do—for which they should not scold but be sorry.—Seattle Times.

Eagle's Poor Judgment

A French schoolboy was attacked by an eagle while on his way to school. He slew the huge bird with a pocket knife.

Not Always Wisdom to Insist on Preciseness

The late R. F. Outcault, of Yellow Kid fame, said one day in Flushing: "Most of our comic-strip artists are short on grammar. It doesn't pay to correct them, though. They get back at you if you do."

"Does it ever pay to correct anybody?" "Once a college president was looking for a teacher of English. He hired a chap finally from New York whose English seemed to be perfect. When the salary and everything had been arranged for, the New Yorker rose to go."

"Where's my hat?" he said. "I'm goin' to go now."

"The college president was shocked at such poor English."

"Goin' to go," he moaned.

"The New Yorker smiled."

"Well, I'll stay the night, if you insist," he said, "but I must catch the first train in the morning."

New Film Marvel

The rolescope, a machine invented in London, will take slow motion pictures of objects revolving at a rate of 500 revolutions a second and slow them down to one revolution a minute. Test pictures taken by this means reveal that drops of water are spherical, lightning a single intense spot of light, and that the flame of an ordinary gas jet fluctuates considerably instead of remaining steady, as it appears.

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA IS BIG HELP TO ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit. At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today, this same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore.

Florida players the other day reported four perfect hands issued on a single deal at bridge. Bridge is an effete game. Castor Oil in Demand
New York city now is consuming more castor oil than at any time in its history—here not as a medicine. Hundreds of tons of castor beans are arriving almost every fortnight in Brooklyn from India and, according to M. C. Brown of the Bush Terminal, they are mainly for conversion into lubricating oil for airplanes. The sudden new demand for castor oil, he says, also has provided additional jobs for many persons in India, where the cultivation of the castor plant is being increased.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal. Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Bad Year for City Slickers, Says Rogers

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Say, our champion New York University team looked like Man o' War till that bunch of Oregon apple knockers got a hold of 'em this afternoon. It was no place for a raccoon coat athlete, up against an old bunch of wheat shockers whose college emblem is a pair of Levi overalls.
These old salmon piggers from the mouth of the Columbia had the city slickers strewn from goal to goal.
With Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia and Al Smith going down all in succession, it just looks like it's the old country boys' year.
Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Menlo Park

Only Routine Business

The City Council met Tuesday evening. Dr. Blake was absent owing to illness. Only routine business was transacted. The report of the chief of police was read, showing that the sum of $717 had been collected during the month of August from fines and licenses, the latter totalled $424 while the licenses collected amounted to $293.

The rubbish ordinance, prepared by the city attorney, was brought up for adoption. Weeden thought the terms of the proposed law were too drastic, while others thought the matter should be left with the police department to oversee small fires started in back yards. It was first believed that an incinerator be supplied by each property owner, but this seemed to be placing a hardship upon taxpayers. It was thought that fires could be started at certain hours of the day. Miss Kugler addressed the council saying that Atherton had an ordinance directing all fires in backyards and other places to be started in the morning and that no fire be lighted after six in the evening and that the law proved satisfactory. Dale was quite outspoken on the question saying that the party wanting the ordinance was an outsider and that no attention should be paid to the matter. The ordinance went over for further investigation.

Chief Furman was directed to procure four signs to be erected in appropriate places at the Fremont school. The chief reported that he had asked James Logan of the state highway traffic force for a man to patrol the highway in front of the Central school during certain hours of the day, but that the officer refused to detail anyone there as it was against the policy of the bureau. After considerable discussion on the subject the question was deferred for further investigation. The school board is to meet with the council to agree upon some plan to patrol the school frontage.

Walker and the chief of police were directed to attend to the work of putting up the street signs. The signs are to be substantial and attractive. The clerk was instructed to secure copies of the new speed laws, the price of which not to exceed $5. The matter of securing a cabinet file for use of the clerk was referred to the chairman to secure prices on same and report to the council at its next meeting. A letter from the Metropolitan Casualty Company, regarding the recent awarding of an insurance policy to a local agent for covering employees of the city and its vehicles, precipitated a heated argument between the local agent and members of the council. However, no action was taken. The parties interested may take the matter up with the state board of underwriters. The council adjourned to meet on September 24.

Purchase Trotter for $10,000

Mrs. E. T. Perry of Atherton has purchased the four-year old trotter, Senator Perkins, champion trotter of California for $10,000. The horse was owned and entered in the state fair races at Sacramento by S. M. Cowell of Santa Cruz.

Removed to S. F.

Mrs. E. Lowe, who has occupied the home of Mrs. Back on Valparaiso avenue all summer, left for her city dwelling yesterday. The place will be taken over and occupied by the new owner, Doctor Charles Strub.

Visit State Fair

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pembroke and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Quayle spent the week end at the state fair at Sacramento. They report the exhibits there to be the best ever.

The C. H. Massey home consisting of 2 acres and improvements on Valparaiso avenue have been sold to Mr. Epstein for $12,000. Mr. Massey is a widely known real estate operator in San Francisco and on the peninsula. He will continue to reside in Menlo Park.

Why Was Menlo Park Omitted?

The big map exhibited at the headquarters of San Mateo county during the state fair did not show Menlo Park on it. Who will place Menlo Park on the map? Those visiting the big fair claim no consideration was shown this community.

P. T. A. To Meet Today

The first regular meeting of the Menlo Park Parent-Teacher Association will be held Friday, September 13, at the Central school, on the highway, commencing at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. P. L. Disdon will give a practical talk on the duties of officers and chairmen. There will also be dancing by one of Mrs. Regan's students, and a musical number conducted by Miss Ruth Braccoco. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting. Mothers of children attending school and all others interested in P. T. A. work are urged to attend.

To Enter Sacred Heart Academy

When the Sacred Heart Academy opens for the fall term next Wednesday, Miss Carmel O'Keefe, daughter of D. E. O'Keefe, will enter as a boarder and will be a junior in the high school of the institution. Miss O'Keefe will be the hostess to a group of her young friends at a dinner dance at the Fairmont hotel in San Francisco Saturday afternoon.

Hot Weather Recipes

Cake may be a year round favorite with the rest of the family, but in summer few housewives enjoy sharing the kitchen with a hot oven.

Still, it is sometimes possible to please everyone. And here, for example, is a "cake" which you can "bake" in the ice-box:

To prepare this ice-box cake you need—
2 cakes German sweet chocolate,
2 tablespoons hot water, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Cook in double boiler until smooth. Add yolks of three eggs, one at a time. Add teaspoon of vanilla. Let cool, then add egg whites, previously well beaten.

Line dish with a dozen lady fingers. Keep in icebox for twenty-four hours. Serve with whipped cream.

With the spread of dietetic knowledge, the tomato and the pineapple are assuming an ever more important place on the American bill of fare.

Here is a novel method of deftly combining these two health aids in one delicious, vitamin charged dish—tomatoes stuffed with pineapple:

Prepare tomatoes for stuffing. Fill with shredded pineapple, chopped nuts and Neufchatel cheese. To 4 tablespoons of pineapple, use 1 tablespoon of cheese and 2 tablespoons of nuts. Mask the whole with cold mayonnaise and serve on a bed of lettuce which has been crisped with water chilled with plenty of ice for an hour.

This splendid salad must be thoroughly chilled in the ice box before serving. That is the secret of all good salads.

Songs of Plain Folks

By James Lewis Hays

Cowboy

Give us rollin' prairie,
No 'th star for a guide;
Pete and me 'll caper,
A-steppin' 'high and wide.
Tie us to an acre-patch,
Shut us up in town,
We can't prance a step, man,
It shore gets us down!

Pete and me is partners
Of the sky-wide range;
Pete's too young to leave it,
I'm too old to change.
Give us grazin' cattle,
Prairie like a sea,
Lariat and saddle,
And we're rip-rarin' free!

The Old West is a goin',
And the New West is wuss;
The range wind's a-blowin'
Gasoline—Lawd, let me cuss!
Pete and me 'll stick it
Till the last herd's gone,
Then we'll pack our saddle bags
And be a-movin' on.
